

Christian Keesee and
Lawrence Keigwin are married

Christian K. Keesee, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Konrad K. Keesee (Joan E. Kirkpatrick) of Oklahoma City, OK, married Lawrence Keigwin, son of Mrs. Warren C. Keigwin (Margaret A. Pfundstein) of Ocala, FL, and the late Mr. Keigwin. The ceremony took place on October 4, 2017, at St. Thomas Church Fifth Avenue in New York. A small reception was held at the Knickerbocker Club, also in New York, followed by an intimate dinner for 26 of the couple’s closest friends in the club’s library.

Mr. Keesee is the grandson of the late Mr. and Mrs. John E. Kirkpatrick (Mary E. Blake) of Oklahoma City, and of the late Mr. and Mrs. Oscar L. Keesee (Mary E. E. Briscoe) of Oklahoma City and Eufaula, OK.

Mr. Keigwin is the grandson of the late Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Pfundstein (Margaret Appel) of New York. He is also the grandson of the late Mr. and Mrs. Richard P. Keigwin (Mary Jaycox) of East Setauket and New York.

Mr. Keesee’s son, Blake, served as best man to both gentlemen. Other participants in the ceremony were close family members. The ceremony took place at the high altar surrounded by candlelight and was officiated by The Reverend Canon Carl F. Turner. The couple became engaged earlier in 2017 while on a visit to the Seychelles Islands after a work trip to Africa for Mr. Keigwin, who was there as a cultural ambassador through the U.S. Department of State.

Mr. Keesee graduated from the University of Central Oklahoma. Mr. Keigwin is a graduate of Hofstra University.

The couple currently make their home in New York and Green Mountain Falls, CO, where they took an extended vacation in place of a formal honeymoon.
